

You may have seen some news this week about Donald Trump's trial in New York. But, what you may not know is that his campaign received $52.8 million in online donations in the 24 hours following the verdict coming down. $52.8 million. That's no joke.

Now, my team tells me that we've seen some support come to our campaign since Trump's guilty verdict, but we need more.

I know you may see a number like $52.8 million and wonder, "Does my donation even matter?" The answer is yes. Yes, it does.

Here's why: There's not a doubt in my mind that if we stand together, we can do the necessary, hard work to defeat Donald Trump once and for all on November 5. But we can't back down now. Especially not in moments like this.

Winning this race is going to take a lot of resources. You know I don't enjoy asking for money, but I'm so incredibly proud that our funding is coming from hardworking folks chipping in a few dollars at a time to finish the job. Because, like me, you refuse to give Trump and his MAGA buddies four more years to destroy our democracy.

With everything on the line this fall, Kamala and I are relying on your support to keep building momentum to reelect us. Can you chip in your first $25 to help us emerge victorious on November 5?

You know I mean what I say and I say all that I mean. The truth about our campaign is this: Grassroots supporters like you are powering this campaign.

Dating back to my earliest race – when folks went door-to-door delivering mail to help raise funds to get me elected to the U.S. Senate – grassroots support mattered to me. I'm proud of that fact.

I am proud of it because no campaign is won or lost alone. That couldn't be truer this year.

Listen, the news is going to be focused on this influx of money to Trump's campaign. They're going to talk about how the verdict could be helping him in the polls. Pundits are probably already coming up with ways this is going to hurt our campaign. But that is not what I am focused on.

I am focused on: You. Your needs. Your family. Your community. Because I'm so grateful for you. For your support.

So only if you're able to, I'm asking you to step up for the first time today.

Thank you so much. Your support means more than you know.

Joe Biden

President of the United States

P.S. I'm humbled beyond measure by the fact that this campaign is funded mostly by working people chipping in what they can, when they can through emails just like this one. Thousands of grassroots supporters chipped in last month to make sure Kamala and I can finish the job. Now, they're counting on you to make your first gift. So, if you're able, please make a \$25 donation to my campaign today.
